YOUTH HELD FOR ATTACK ON GIRL, 6

Expresses Willingness to Plead Guilty to Serious Charge.

Harold Gander, 23, was arraigned in municipal court here today on a charge of having assaulted a 6-year-old girl in a fourth ward home. He expressed a willingness to plead guilty, although no plea was accepted up to 2:30 because Dist. Atty. S. G. Dinwiddie did not appear.

It is alleged that Gander, a roomer at the little girl's home, attacked her while no one else was in the house. He gave her little brother 10 cents to go out and buy some candy, police claim.

Police were first notified Friday. Investigation at the Parker Pen company, where he had been employed for five weeks, showed he had left town. The drag-net was thrown out with the result that he was arrested in Rockford Saturday night.

Gander came here from Gays Mills, Wis.

INSPECT MILK HERE FOR FARMERS BENEFIT

To insure fair treatment for its members, the Rock County Farm Bureau has engaged Thomas H. Binney as dairy inspector, from the dairy course of the college of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin, who is to be in charge of the dairy inspection work in the county. A modern and completely equipped laboratory is maintained by the Bureau at the Farm Bureau warehouse, Binney visits all the milk factories in the county. Here he obtains the daily milk samples of each individual farmer. These he tests and compares with the tests of the creamery. He also makes analysis of the composition.

If any member of the Bureau believes that the tests of the creamery are not correct, he may report this to the county agent or the milk inspector, and a careful analysis will be made.

9 PINTS LIQUOR ON MAN ARRESTED FOR PASSING BAD CHECK

William Mc Rea stepped off a Milwaukee train here last night directly into the arms of a waiting police man, who held him until his arrest. When arrested he had in his possession a gallon and a pint of liquor, police say. This was confiscated. Mc Rea, a 30-year-old driver, complained that he was fined $25 Saturday, but that when he went to collect on it, found Mc Rea had no bank account. It was made out on the Bank of Southern Wisconsin. It was on this charge he was arrested.

He is being held in the city lock-up pending the arrival of a prohibition agent. The theory is that he sought to sell the liquor here, making enough money to make good the $25 check besides putting a little extra in his pockets.

Mc Rea worked for the Du Pont Engineering company until a short time ago.

ONE RESTAURANT OF FIVE PASSES

One Place Warned to Improve
Immediately—Other Findings.

Out of five eating places inspected by Dr. J. J. Woodworth, sanitary inspector, Saturday, only one was found to be in good condition, conducted with regard to rules of sanitation. One cafe displayed uncovered fried cakes, and had too large an accumulation of garbage. The kitchen of this eating place was in poor condition, being in need of a thorough cleaning. Another restaurant was found by the inspector to be in fair condition, had a dirty back yard.

Unscreened pastry, dirty glasses, and unsanitary conditions gave one lunch place a record of being in bad condition, and Dr. Woodworth has notified the owner that unless conditions are improved within the week, action will be taken against him.

Garbage Behind Flats

Heaps of garbage back of a flat building were discovered by the inspector Saturday, and another flat having an outside toilet was found in need of a new vault, as there is no sewerage and water on this particular street. A sewer which empties into river 15 feet from the street on west side of Jackson street and the south bank of the river was noted by the inspector on his inspection trip, and a garbage dump on the south bank of the river within the city limits was another unsanitary condition found by Dr. Woodworth.

Excavities Fair.
A dairy which has recently moved to a new location, has not yet provided adequate screens for doors and windows. Need for cleaning the brush and the best chimney was evidenced by the conditions prevailing in one meat market which came in for a visit Saturday.

AMERICAN COLONY AT WARSAW MOVES TO POSEN

WARSAW, Aug. 15.—Warsaw's American colony has shifted to Posen. There is scarcely an American in Warsaw now except a few relief workers, officers of the American Typhus Expedition and newspaper correspondents. J. D. Moffet, third secretary at the American legation, is still here looking after the interests of the United States government at Warsaw.

Announcement was made that government authorities had not set a day for leaving the capital and this seems to have had a quieting effect on the population. Business is going on as usual.

The Diary of an Engaged Girl

LINDSEY SIGNS A VERY GOOD CONTRACT.

July 26—(After that ever joyful time for sailing drawing very near.) Working harder than ever, and enjoying same.

Wonders will never cease, in my young life at least. Today Mr. K. called me in to sign a contract, covering a year, and a very good one. My two months' salary is paid for by the leader, and my work back, if possible, can you think of it? I was that nervous and flustered that I took my mouth dropped open in wonder. But all my senses worked at once, and I thought that to my reader, and knowing that there would be many an argument pro and con, I was to hesitate, and take this contract before signing it.

I took the pen by the horns, and wrote in my name to that glorious contract with a firm hand.

Nothing was more, my immediate future is assured. It's a grand feeling, I can tell you.

Roger Waring and I were out on a sketch party together, and we collected the good news for an hour or two. He told me that I ought to be very proud, for it wasn't often that The Leader felt as hard for any one.

After I was through with my work I skipped up to Jean's brand new apartment in the Village, and told her the good tidings. Found her and Harvey last in each other's smiles, and fairly had to tear their apart, if you can understand that. Of course they were just as delighted as I was myself, and so glad that no matter how tightly I was tied up within the next few months, I was assured of economic independence. (And how we love that phrase, all of us!)

The two birds (birds is for short) have the cutest place imaginable. It's down on Burrow street, and at the top of one of those dear little made-up houses, that spring from day to day in the Village, and cost a hundred dollars a thought, or something like that. The three rooms are all done in old blue and gold, and mostly decorated in the French style. I know. Even the family victrina is a modest blue and orange, and looks so used, and intimate and jolly, somehow.

Jean made the orange window curtains, and the furniture is also hand-made and painted, by the Village artist. Oh, it's so lovely for words. The kitchenette is as big as a pocket handkerchief, and bristles with brand new pots, etc. I see that Jean is going to feel in spite of being an artist.

Harvey goes to his business regular every morning, but as I thought he were living in the Bronx and he was a communist, Jean gets his breakfast. She is not a bit ashamed of same, either. Told me that that night, when she was alone, she was laughing at a lot of silly theories, etc. I wonder.

Several people drifted in during the afternoon, and we had a grand reunion, just as if none of us was engaged, married or contracted for months to come.

I called on my old Jack, from there (yes, they have a brand new telephone, and everything) and told him that I had some wonderful news for him, and he sure to come around at 8 o'clock. He was all excitement and told me, incidentally, that his mother had written a long and affectionate letter to him, telling her to come right home and be kissed, etc.

Others are that way! He also thought me for helping Laura to do as she wanted, for he said she had seemed very miserable at home for the past few weeks, although she had not confided her reasons for same to anyone.

Jean and Harvey sleep on the loveliest and most comfortable divan in the house, and broad and covered with a dark blue velvet cover, and has gold and orange cushions on its smooth surface. Reminds me of something in "The Arabian Nights."

It does one good to see how happy they are.

Graceful Scarf of "Ice Wool"

New in World of Knit Things

By ELOISE.

If you would be fashionable wear one of the new ice-wool scarves at your next garden party or summer dance. They are delicately woven in the finest of wool and come in all the most delicate shades as well as brilliant green, flame and orange.

The brilliant colors are smart with white frocks and the white shawls are favored for wear with colored frocks. The yarn is called ice-wool because of the great luster it has.

It is rather a quaint idea this of wearing shawls and seems to recall the olden days when ladies always had their favorite shawl which they wore when walking on the moonlit veranda or in the garden between sunset and dawn. Here is made of white ice-wool in ample proportions and in dainty, lacy design. Such a shawl will be an addition to the smartest gown and will really be found quite comfortable on the cooler evenings of fall.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 15 years old and am in love with a boy my age. I see him often, but never speak to him, first. Please wait for him to speak first. Please tell me what to do.

It is your place to speak to the young man first, that is, if you are acquainted; if you are strangers, do not speak. I consider it unfortunate that a 15-year-old girl leaves herself in love. Doubtless you have built an ideal you would find him quite different from the boy you think he is.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 15 years old. I don't like freckles and I have very many on my face and hands. I am afraid to use double strength lotions for fear it will ruin my face. The wind seems to burn my face terribly. Please print a recipe for removing freckles.

I do not encourage drastic treatment for freckles, and would not therefore advise you to use a lotion doubly strong. Without a doubt, such treatment would injure your skin. Freckles are very apt to disappear to a great extent of their own accord. Very like you, will not notice them in three or four years.

A simple bleach, efficacious in some instances, is made from one ounce of glycerine and half an ounce of rose-water.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl 14 years of age. I am in love with a boy about 17 years old. He has never gone with me, but I would like to go with him. Please advise me how to get him to keep company with me.

To "get him to keep company" with you, you would be running after him.

RECIPES FOR A DAY

Escalloped Potatoes—Parboil thinly sliced potatoes for five minutes.

Arrange in casserole, salt and pepper to taste, pour hot milk over, pour cream if you like, and bake in oven with bits of butter and bake. Old potatoes are very nice this way.

Enough may be prepared for two meals, the remainder being reheated for dinner the next day.

Beet and Egg Salad—Boil beets until tender, season with salt and pepper, leave to cool, shell, and put in crock with the beets.

When ready to serve arrange beets and eggs on lettuce and serve very cold. This is very pretty as well as a hearty salad.

String Beans with Bacon—Parboil string beans in cover with boiling water, salt to taste, add bacon which has been cut into small pieces.

Put in the cooker until and allow to boil for a few moments. They should be boiled down until almost dry.

PEAR RECIPES.

Baked Pears—Wash the pears and then put in half an hour in a baking dish with the ends left up. Sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon. Add just enough water to cover the bottom of the dish and bake in a slow oven until tender.

Baked Whole Pears—Wash the pears and then place in a casserole. Place four cloves and one cup lemon juice in thin slices and one cup sugar. Add a cup of water for every 15 pears. Cover the dish and bake slowly until tender.

Pear Cobbler—Grease a baking dish and place a layer of thinly sliced pears in the dish. Sprinkle each layer with sugar and cinnamon and then place a layer of bread crumbs one-quarter inch deep; repeat until the dish is full. Then add one cup of syrup and cover with crust of pastry. Bake in a slow oven for 45 minutes. Cool and loosen the crust with a knife and then place a large plate over the pastry and invert. Cut in wedge-shaped pieces and serve with cream.

Pear and Bread Pudding—Cut the pears into small pieces and place a layer of bread in a well-greased casserole. Sprinkle with him. It is not a girl's place to seek a man and when she does she shows very poor taste. Be reserved and let young men come to you. At the age of 15 you need not worry about not having a sweetheart because you are too young to have one. In due time some one will take an interest in you without your seeking him.

"Myrtle P." Your questions are not in my line. You can find suggestions in books on entertainment and also in the various women's magazines.

"Yours Respectfully, J. D. J." I am sorry, but I have not the address you requested.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman of 50. I am in love with a lady of about 40. She seems to want to be around where I am and seems to do so whenever she gets a chance, but when I try to show my love for her she acts cold for a while. Then she seems to be friendly again. What would you do in this case, or advise? I have a little money, but this doesn't help out in my lonely hours as it is no company for women. Women know the ways of women better than men do.

COLD LOVE. Perhaps you are too hasty in your mind. Forget the woman's mind. All women love little attentions. Do you call upon the lady or do you merely show your interest when you taken her to play, dinner, or various other places the would enjoy? Have you thought her kind? Do you and she walk together and do you please her? Have you thought her books, what she likes to read and you think she would enjoy?

My dear friend, I have suggested methods which will win a woman's affections.

and cinnamon, then a layer of thin sliced pears. When the dish is full cover with one well-beaten egg and sufficient milk to cover. Bake in a slow oven until custard is set.

Pear Dumplings—Pare, core and then chop fine one dozen small pears. Place in a bowl and add the juice of one lemon, one-half teaspoon of nutmeg, one cup of brown sugar. Prepare pastry and then roll out a quarter inch thick. Cut into a inch squares, place the pear mixture in the center and then set on the pastry. Fold the pastry about the pears and press the edges firmly together. Bake with milk and then bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes.

Fruit Salad—One orange, one banana, and apple, one-half cup pineapple (from canned), cut in small pieces and mix; strain pineapple juice and add one tablespoon of dissolved gelatin; season to taste and pour over the fruit. When hard put grated coconut or chopped nuts over. Serve with whipped cream.

Staleys Swipe Game from Samsons at Decatur 5 to 1

By George McManus.

Slim Walsh is Hit Hard; Sammies Unable to Bunch Hits; Rain Falls Sunday

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 16.—Nicking Slim Walsh for 13 wallops, five of them for extra bases, the Staleys whipped the Samson Tractors here Saturday by the score of 5 to 1. Rain Sunday caused postponement of the second game of the series.

Samsons had a wonderful chance to score in the fifth inning, the only stanza in which they bunched their bingles. In that frame, Rush was reached for three straight hits,—Walsh, Breckenridge and Schwind—but the best Capron could do with the bags filled was to shoot a fly to the outfield. He made the third out and the Sammies failed to score.

Perring's crew registered their only run in the sixth. Beale tripled to left center and scored on Elliott's sacrifice fly.

Staleys scored their first run in the second when, after Lottshaw was thrown out at third, an attempt to steal his two bagger, Pahlman singled and crossed the platter on Lottshaw's triple to right. In the third, a triple by George Hales followed by Denitt's single gave the Staleys another run, while in the fourth Watkins beat out a hit in front of the plate and went to second. Shook threw the first. Woodworth's two bagger scored him.

Two runs were put over by the Decatur bunch in the fifth. Hales opened by drawing a free duck out of Walsh's storehouse. He advanced to second on Denitt's hit. Then stealing third, he scored on McGladie's single. The Staleys third sacker stole second and advanced to third on Shook's passed ball. He was out on Lottshaw's tap to Holland. Pahlman's triple put two more in. Pahlman's triple to left scored Lottshaw.

Past Fielding Game Both teams put up a snappy game in the field. Despite the fact that he made the only error of the game, Shook was in fine form at the plate accounting for eight putouts. Five besides the third technician credited to him because of strikeouts by Walsh. Dunbar was back in at right field and nabbed three. Elliott Breck hung on to three in his position. Holland played a pretty game at second.

"Rubber" Beale went crazy with his stick making a triple and a double in three trips to the plate. Capron is keeping up his batting average. He got two out of four times up, while Breckenridge made the same record.

Shutter's Women's Shooting Record with Perfect Score

Camp Perry, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Mary Crossman, wife of an army officer, shattered a world record for women by making a perfect score of 10 bulls eyes on the 1,000 yard range.
